

MAI Award 2018

USD $ 30.000, 10.000, 10.000

This annual award is established to encourage progress in biannually research

Announcement!

This is a prize awarded to 3 young scientists who have enriched the field of autoimmunity through outstanding, creative and independent research.

New Award:

Selection is made by an International Scientific Committee comprised of well established authorities within the autoimmunity disease fields.

Award considerations are:

- Up to the age of 40 as of October 1, 2017
- Quality and impact of scientific publications (= H index)
- Research in the forefront
- Quality and level of independence
- Professional implication on career

You can either apply yourself or nominate somebody. The candidate should be a not yet established scientist (no head of department or professor).

The Award Ceremony will be held at the Autoimmunity Congress in Lisbon in May 2018, where the winner will be presented with an award of USD 30.000 and will be invited to hold a plenary lecture. Two additional winners will each receive USD 10.000 and will be invited to present a lecture.

Application/Nomination for the award will be open for one month only, September 2017.

For further information visit Autoimmunity website <http://autoimmunity.kenes.com/>.

The award is sponsored by Thermo Fisher Scientific.

ThermoFisher
SCIENTIFIC